Chronic Lyme Disease Treatment Options

Several years ago, my husband, three children and I were all diagnosed with Chronic Lyme disease. After years of strange symptoms, our “outside the box” pediatrician agreed to test us for Lyme disease. Three of us were tested by Igenex lab- the gold standard for Lyme testing, and then all 5 of us were tested by LabCorp, to determine our CD57 NK cell marker essay- a test used by Lyme literate MD’s to determine if treatment is working. A suppressed CD57 – anything below 100- is considered abnormal, and anything below 70 is considered positive for Lyme, and below 20 is considered the last stages of Lyme disease. 4 of us tested around the 30 mark, and my teenage daughter (at the time) had a CD57 of 18, and interestingly she was the sickest of us all. Some of the things we tried were: ozone therapy- sauna and insufflations, stem cell therapy, colloidal silver, samento, Buenher protocol, transfer factor/ specific for Lyme and co-infections, Bio Essence protocol, Advanced Cell Training, NAET, Emotional Freedom Technique, NET, Dr. Bob Marshall’s Quantum Resonance (QRA), The Feinberg Method, Bio Cranial Technique, Dark Field Microscopy protocol, partial Marshall Protocol, Cranio Biotic, beta glucan therapy, and thousands of dollars worth of nutritional support! Many of the things we tried provided some symptom relief, but our CD57 numbers still remained the same.

One day I was researching online, and listened in on Dani’s radio show, and heard her tell the story about her husband, Jack, and how he went into remission from Sarcoidosis after several months on FuCoyDon. I have read that Lyme can be the cause of sarcoidosis, and had suspected that my older son might even have it, due to his constant unexplained shortness of breath and a couple of granulomas spotted on his lungs a few years ago on a chest CT scan. So we decided to give it a try. After 9 months, taking 1/2 oz to 1 oz. a day on an empty stomach, our symptoms began to greatly improve & my husband and 2 older children and I retested our CD 57; Alexandra went from 18 cd57 to 60, Keller was 32 and went up to 84, my husband Jay went from 30 to 88- all after about 9 months. I tested mine after only 3months on FuCoyDon and I went from 30 to 59.

I have started a blog, called “The Chronicles of Borrelia”, explaining our entire story. I have come to the conclusion that pathogen at the chronic level (things like Borrelia Burgdorferi/ Lyme, etc) and toxins, are what are responsible for almost all diseased states/ autoimmunity, learning disabilities, Autism, mental illness/ depression, cancer, heart disease, etc. I am absolutely convinced of it, after our almost decade long journey. And by modulating the immune system and boosting immune markers, with powerful supplements like FuCoyDon, I believe the body can begin to heal itself.
