

The Pharma Reich

Posted by Fred Black on May 4, 2011 at 12:58pm
<http://snardfarker.ning.com/profiles/blogs/the-pharma-reich>

For anyone who has ever wanted to see just how deep the rabbit-hole goes, nothing unearths the big picture like investigating pharmaceutical companies. The same usual suspects keep appearing time and time again, joining the dots to the matrix of deceit which enslaves and poisons humanity. A majority of modern day big pharma companies all derive from one source.

Financed by Wall St, in 1925 a super corporation was created in Germany from six already giant chemical companies: BASF, Bayer, Agfa, Hoechst, Weiler-ter-Meer, and Griesheim-Elektron. These six companies were merged into Interessens-Gemeinschaft Farbenindustrie AG, or IG Farben for short.

IGF was described as "a state within a state", and it was said by Anthony C. Sutton that: "Without the capital supplies by Wall Street, there would have been no I.G. Farben, and almost certainly no Adolph Hitler and World War II."

In 1928 American interests in Farben were organised into a Swiss holding company – I.G. Chemie, control of which rested in Germany. In 1929 the American firms that comprised I.G. Chemie merged to become American IG Chemical Corporation, or American IG, later renamed General Aniline & Film.

William Dodd, U.S. ambassador to Germany, 1937: "A clique of U.S. industrialists is hell-bent to bring a fascist state to supplant our democratic government and is working closely with the fascist regime in Germany. I have had plenty of opportunity in Berlin to witness how close some of our American ruling families are to the Nazi regime. . . They extended aid to help Fascism occupy the seat of power, and they are helping to keep it there."

Three board members of American IG were tried and convicted as German 'war criminals' at the Nuremberg Trials.

I.G. Farben's contributions to the world include Zyklon B (cyanide-based pesticide), and the more deadly Sarin nerve gas. Sarin is such a speedy and efficient exterminator due to it being a fluorinated gas (Isopropyl methylphosphonofluoridate).

I.G. Farben had developed plans during the war to fluoridate the occupied countries, because it had been found that fluoridation caused slight damage to a specific part of the brain. This damage had a very particular effect. It made it more difficult for the person affected to defend his freedom, he became more docile towards authority.

Both the Germans and the Russians added sodium fluoride to the drinking water of prisoners of war to make them stupid and docile.

Dr. Phyllis Mullenix established conclusively that fluoride crosses the blood/brain barrier. (Very few substances can cross this barrier, whose job it is to protect the brain from toxic exposure.)

Dr. George Waldbott:

"Another well-substantiated case, severe brain damage, convulsions from drinking Saginaw (Washington) water. Through investigation including exploratory brain surgery, patient continued to eliminate 4 mgs daily of retained fluorine two months after fluoridation discontinued."

When Mrs Marsh the Colgate lady said "It really does get in", she wasn't f*cking around.

The Mellon family were the founders of the original Mellon Institute whence came the "amazing (but totally fallacious) sodium fluoride/dental caries prevention discovery" - the discovery that literally turned 'garbage into gold'.

The Mellon family also founded the American Aluminium Company (Alcoa), the largest producer of the waste toxin, sodium fluoride, which up to this point of 'caries discovery' had a relatively little known commercial or industrial value, was an environmental hazard of great public concern, and was very costly in terms of safe disposal.

It is also interesting to note that Alcoa's Andrew Mellon became Treasury Secretary under President Woodrow Wilson in 1928. Conveniently, Mellon now headed the agency that funded the Public Health Service (PHS).

In 1939 Alcoa transferred its technology to Germany; the Dow Chemical Company transmitted its experience and technology in that same period. At this time the US itself, was in search of incapacitating agents to put in the enemy's water supply. LSD was one such "agent" tested; the program went on for many decades and included the infamous MK-ULTRA experiments.

The "Rockefeller Report" to the United States President on CIA activities said: "The drug program was part of a much larger CIA program to study possible means of controlling human behaviour".

An adviser to the US Government on hypnotism or psychological behaviour control, Dr. George Estabrooks, later became Chairman, Department of Psychology at Colgate University. Colgate was and remains the most ardent producer and advocate for the fluoridation of a domestic product - fluoridated toothpaste.

Incidentally, I.G. Farben not only controlled subsidiaries that are today's big pharma companies, they also commanded cartel agreements with companies such as General Mills, M.W. Kellogg Co., Nestle and Colgate.

Included in I.G.'s business plan for the last half of the twentieth century was the successful rise of the "Forth Reich." Their records record this as the "neuordnung," that is "New Order."

The DuPont family also had their allies in Germany, aiding armament businesses. To digress a little, Lamont DuPont, his banker Andrew Mellon (ALCOA financier) and one William Randolph Hearst were the co-conspirators who also brought us "Reefer Madness", the campaign for convincing Americans that marijuana was the devils weed.

Mellon appointed his nephew-in-law, Harry J. Anslinger, to Commissioner of the newly created Federal Bureau of Narcotics in order to successfully stamp out the threat of hemp production.

Swiss based Hoffman-La-Roche is another pharma company linked to I. G. Farben. Roche are the marketers of Rohypnol (fluoridated Valium), and they also produced BZ (3-quinuclidinyl benzilate) – one of the more potent substances utilized in the fore mentioned MK-ULTRA experiments.

Sandoz, now Novartis (Swiss pharma), was the original provider of LSD to the CIA in those experiments. In 1953 the CIA provided Eli Lilly with funding to attempt synthesis of LSD as the reagents required by Sandoz for production were expensive and scarce. Lilly chemists succeeded in their quest, and subsequent supplies were from Eli Lilly.

Eli Lilly of course are the makers of Fluoxetine (Prozac), a fluoride based SSRI antidepressant which reportedly, Lilly knew increased violent and suicidal behavior in patients, as far back as 1988, but instructed employees to hide that information.

The Lilly company in 2005 paid out $690 million to settle an estimated 8,000 pending lawsuits in the US, concerning their alleged failure to warn about the risk of their antipsychotic drug Zyprexa causing diabetes.

In the early 1920's, the Eli Lilly Co. was given the sole and only monopoly for the manufacture and sale of insulin. It is said that Lilly, in order to do the manufacturing, had to steal the procedures and technique for production from the creator of insulin, Dr Scott.

In 2009, Eli Lilly was fined $1.5 billion for marketing Zyprexa for uses not approved by the FDA, namely a treatment for dementia, including Alzheimer's.

Mercury in vaccines is yet another thing we can thank Eli Lilly for. The addition of thimerosal (ethyl mercury) to vaccines was an initiative undertaken by Lilly in 1929. It is now widely accepted that thimerosal is a significant contributing factor in autism, afflicting 1 child in 168 in the US.

In a congressional hearing examining the use of thimerosal, Congressman Dan Burton said: "You mean to tell me that since 1929, we've been using Thimerosal, and the only test that you know of is from 1929, and every one of those people had meningitis, and they all died?"

Depression is caused by brain inflammation which depletes the body of serotonin. Brain inflammation is one of the side effects of vaccines. In the United States, 37% of autistic children are given SSRI's like Prozac.

Mitch Daniels, once vice president of Eli Lilly, was appointed to the Office of Management and Budget under G. W. Bush in 2001. The Director of the OMB is also a member of the National Security Council and Homeland Security Division.

In Nov 2002, an insertion of a "provision" in the "appendix" of the Homeland Security Act was made for exempting Eli Lilly from liability for all damages resulting from thimerosal poisoning. In June 2002, President George W. Bush had also appointed Eli Lilly's CEO, Sidney Taurel, to a seat on his Homeland Security Advisory Council.

GW wasn't the first Bush to pimp Eli Lilly. After father George Herbert Walker Bush left his CIA director post in 1977 and before becoming vice president in 1980, he was on Eli Lilly's board of directors. As vice president, Bush failed to disclose his Lilly stock and lobbied hard on behalf of Big Pharma, especially Eli Lilly.

In 1981, GHW placed this stock ($145,000.00 worth) into a blind trust, meaning that Bush allegedly had no way of knowing whether his trust still owned shares in the firm or not.

GHWB loves a blind trust, just one year prior, 1980; he had also placed his father's Nazi inheritance into a blind trust. One can only guess how much that inheritance was worth in 1980, but when Prescott Bush was reimbursed in 1951 for his "one share" of Union Banking Corporation, it paid $1.5 million.

Prescott managed UBC directly. His father in law, George Herbert Walker, along with German industrialist Fritz Thyssen, financed Hitler before and during WWII. Near the end of WWI, August Thyssen had opened the Bank voor Handel en Scheepvaart in Rotterdam.

W.A. Harriman & Co., managed by G.H. Walker, set up a Berlin branch in 1922. The managing director of Bank voor Handel en Scheepvaart met with Walker and the Harriman brothers in New York, 1924 to establish UBC.

Through the mid to late 1920s, UBC sold over $50,000,000 worth of German bonds to American investors. UBC managed banking transactions for the Third Reich until being seized under the trading with the enemy act in 1942.

Walker hired Bush to help him supervise Thyssen/ Flick United Steel Works. Consolidated Silesian Steel Corp was one portion of United Steel Works.

The Auschwitz concentration camp was named after the town of Oswiecim, one of Poland's richest mineral regions, with Silesian Steel Corp. nearby, utilizing the slave labourers from the camp (an IG Farben factory). Thyssen sold Consolidated Steel to UBC. Under the complete control of Harriman and the management of Bush, the company became the Silesian American Corp.

Another interesting fact about Prescott Bush is that he was integral to the success of the Manhattan Project as US liaison with the UK. Appointed by Eisenhower, his primary duties were to assist the US in acquisition of Uranium and fission technology from the British.

Recently declassified US Military documents show how Fluoride is the key chemical in atomic bomb production and millions of tons of it were needed for the manufacture of bomb-grade uranium and plutonium.

The Manhattan Project was a joint venture between two of the world's largest and oldest commercial powerhouses of the "Electrical/Energy" industry, Westinghouse and General Electric who have been the primary nuclear contractors for the Pentagon, ever since.

International General Electric was the largest shareholder (30%) of German General Electric (A. E. G.), another big contributor to Hitler. Several of AEG's Directors were also on the board of I. G. Farben. IGF and International General Electric also had the same shareholders.

Polycarbonate, the plastic that leaches Bisphenol A, was developed in Germany and the United States at the same time, in 1955, by Bayer in Germany and General Electric in the United States respectively.

Bisphenol A has been well documented for having hormonal effects on the human body. Scientists have discovered that women who have had three or more consecutive miscarriages had 3 times higher levels of Bisphenol A in their blood than women who had successfully given birth. Bisphenol A is also known to cause Polycystic Ovary Syndrome, a growing epidemic.

There are hundreds of types of plastic, many of them having no effect on the endocrine system, but the industry insists on using Bisphenol A.

Just as Bayer and General Electric had conspired to come up with this product at exactly the same time, financed by Wall St and international bankers, so it is that business continues in the present time.

Today the world's largest pharmaceutical company is Pfizer Inc. after acquiring rival giant Wyeth for $68 billion in January 2009. The sum included $22.5 billion loaned by five major Wall St Banks.

Pfizer merged with Warner-Lambert in 2000. Warner-Lambert previously acquired Parke-Davis (formerly of the I.G. Farben cartel). In 2002 Pfizer merged with Pharmacia, a conglomerate from the merging of Pharmacia & Upjohn with Monsanto. Monsanto had previously bought G.D. Searle.

Incidentally, General Electric Healthcare ended up buying a biotech division of Pharmacia & Upjohn in 2004, that is after it had undergone mergers in between.

Also in Jan 09, Pfizer pleaded guilty to the largest health care fraud in U.S. history and agreed to pay $2.3 billion to settle a federal investigation into its alleged off-label marketing of the now-withdrawn painkiller Bextra.

This was Pfizer's fourth such settlement with the U.S. Department of Justice in the last ten years.

The pact follows Pfizer's October accord to pay $894 million to settle most of the personal-injury suits filed against it by patients who took Bextra or Celebrex. The FDA had recommended the withdrawal citing an increased risk of heart attack and stroke.

Bextra was originally marketed by G.D. Searle & Company, the kind folk who delivered to us Aspartame, well known as NutraSweet. Developed as an ulcer treatment, a Searle scientist discovered its sweet taste in 1965 while licking it from his fingers and thought, hello, we can sell this to hundreds of millions instead of just a few ulcer sufferers.

In early tests by Searle, the substance showed it produced microscopic holes and tumours in the brains of experimental mice, epileptic seizures in monkeys, and was converted by animals into dangerous substances, including formaldehyde.

To their credit, Searle didn't let these pesky little details interfere with their aspirations (world domination). Despite the FDA refusing to approve aspartame for 16 years, still they remained undeterred. Searle knew one day, for the right price, someone in government with the necessary authority, would be their whore.

Enter Donald Rumsfeld; he had the toxic sweetener approved by an FDA Commissioner that he had personally installed, even before the swearing in of the government elect (Reagan's transition team).

Rumsfeld was of course, CEO of Searle at the time. Today aspartame is found in over 5000 products under the names: NutraSweet/Equal/Spoonful, E951, Canderel and more. Having no calories, it is marketed in all its forms as a diet product. The great irony is that it has been noted for precipitating the obesity epidemic in the US as it induces a craving for carbohydrates.

Aspartic acid (40% of aspartame), is an excitotoxin that stimulates the neurons of the brain to death causing brain damage. Aspartame is 50% phenylalanine, neurotoxic and goes directly into the brain lowering the seizure threshold and depleting serotonin. Lowered serotonin triggers manic depression or bipolar, suicidal tendencies, mood swings, panic attacks and other types of behavioural and psychiatric problems.

This is all very good news indeed for Novartis, the makers of Ritalin, an amphetamine derivative. Before the approval of aspartame, there was no epidemic of ADHD and no epidemic of Ritalin prescriptions. Remember Novartis formerly Sandoz, were the CIA's original source of LSD.

From this outstanding contribution to humanity, Mr Rumsfeld never looked back; he continued to excel himself, with each new enterprise being more putrid than the last. During the mid eighties as Ronald Reagan's special envoy to the Middle East, he supervised the relationship with Saddam Hussein, in which the US supplied to Iraq intelligence, military technology and the necessary ingredients to make weapons of mass destruction.

Those ingredients included the ones for Sarin gas (the I.G. Farben developed, fluorinated nerve gas), which Iraq deployed against Iran. It is reported that the LaFarge Company in America supplied many of the chemicals; Vice President GHW Bush was a sizeable stockholder in this French owned firm. A noted director of American LaFarge was one Hillary Rodham Clinton.

The good will to Iraq wasn't limited to a bit of fluoride, tributes also included bio weaponry. Senator Riegle's Congressional Report of 1994 documented that American Type Culture Collection, shipped biological materials to Iraqi government agencies, 1985 – 1986, under license by the U.S. Commerce Department.

Between governments, Donny mainly filled his time selling more weapons, he was CEO of General Instruments and had a board position with Gulfstream Aerospace, later acquired by General Dynamics in 1999, where upon Donny was returned $11 million for his stock shares. He was also on the board of Swiss-based engineering company ABB who happened to sell two nuclear reactors to North Korea for a cool US$200 million.

When Rumsfeld returned to office as Secretary of Defense for G.W. Bush, and made great fanfare over Iraq possessing WMDs, he was right, he had the receipts. However, he also knew full well that junior's father GHW, had destroyed most of them in operation Dessert Storm, and that the remaining weapons were eradicated by UN inspectors in 1993.

During the hiatus in government for Rumsfeld, he also became Chairman of Gilead Sciences in 1997, another pharmaceutical company; he loves his pharma nearly as much as his weapons, often they are the same thing though.

Gilead owns the intellectual property rights to the anti-viral Tamiflu which is marketed by Hoffman-La Roche (Swiss I.G. Farben). Rumsfeld stood down from the board when he was appointed Secretary of Defense, but it goes without saying that he managed to keep hold of his Gilead stock shares.

Those shares went up and up when in 2005, nothing to do with Donald I'm sure but solely for the good of the nation, G.W. Bush approved an order for 20 million courses of Tamiflu. Bush claimed that 2 million Americans were about to die from an avian flu pandemic.

Tamiflu side effects include: delirium, hallucinations, convulsions, disturbed consciousness, abnormal behaviour and death. As a treatment for influenza, it's completely f*cking useless, more favourable side effects include all the symptoms of flu: nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, headache, dizziness, fatigue and coughing. Taken as directed, Tamiflu can reduce the duration of flu symptoms by up to a whole day, but of course, that day you will be experiencing its side effects.

Rumsfeld's stock shares in Gilead were estimated at between $25-$50 million long before pigs started flying (swine flu) and an absolute sh*t load of Tamiflu has been sold since then.

Nice work if you can get it, selling products to treat the symptoms of the products sold.

Pharma companies make billions producing vaccines. Vaccines do nothing to reduce disease; on the contrary, they are nothing less than injected illness. They make billions pedaling the likes of aspartame. Next they profit in the billions from psychiatric drugs.

Then at this point, if for some reason the consumer still has a functioning heart, liver and kidneys, but obviously is emotionally FUBAR, they will sell even better psych drugs, if not, the billion dollar finale is with selling insulin, other diabetic treatments and heart medications. And when all else fails, their chemical creations will always be in high demand as weapons of war.

Related Stink pages:

Wall Street and the Rise of Hitler

Truth Decay - the history of Fluoride

Bitter Sweet - the Aspartame story

Reefer Madness

References:

http://www.sourcewatch.org/index.php?title=Martin_Faga

http://www.gulfweb.org/bigdoc/report/r_1_2.html#exports

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/American_IG

<http://www.hbs.edu/bhr/archives/bookreviews/78/phayes.pdf>

http://www.whale.to/b/lsd_lilly.html

http://www.healthfreedomusa.org/docs/Syringe_of_death.pdf

http://www.corbetteport.com/articles/20090816_biochemical_manipula...

<http://www.redrat.net/gorebush/dictator.htm>

<http://www.healthcarealternatives.net/fluoride.html>

<http://www.sweetliberty.org/issues/health/flouride.html>

Correction Edit:

"The Mellon family also founded the American Aluminium Company (Alcoa), the largest producer of the waste toxin, sodium fluoride, which up to this point of 'caries discovery' had a relatively little known commercial or industrial value, was an environmental hazard of great public concern, and was very costly in terms of safe disposal. It is also interesting to note that Alcoa's Andrew Mellon became Treasury Secretary under President Woodrow Wilson in 1928. Conveniently, Mellon now headed the agency that funded the Public Health Service (PHS)."

This is exact text from source - www.healthcarealternatives.net It is however slightly inaccurate.

Firstly, Andrew Melon did not "found" ALCOA. Being a very wealthy industrialist and banker however, he did fund its founding.

Secondly, Melon was appointed Secretary of the Treasury by Warren G. Harding in 1921. He served for ten years and eleven months. His service continued through the Coolidge administration and most of the Hoover administration.

If you know your history, you would know Woodrow Wilson held office 1913 - 1921. You know, he was the one who sold out America with the Fed Reserve Act.

Sloppy work, but the other info from the source named, checks out ok on cross examination.