

How Aeon Combats Aging Like No Other Product

It is well known today that the single biggest cause of aging is stress. At first blush, this may seem to be an odd concept, but when you dig into the source of aging it really becomes evident why this is. Physical and emotional stress produce harmful chemicals that cause cell oxidation. This oxidation results in inflammation. Over time, this process leads to chronic inflammation, which damages organs, cells and even DNA.

The amount of stress you have in your daily life will determine the rate at which you age. Now, of course, there are many other contributing factors. For example, if you have a healthy diet, you supplement, and are properly hydrated, you can mitigate some of the effects of stress. But, eventually, daily stress catches up with all of us and we age.

Aeon is a completely new anti-aging product because the mechanism by which it fights aging has never before been tapped into. Aeon is capable of interrupting the aging process by immediately reducing stress on the body. We've proven this with our eight clinical studies. We've shown that Aeon can reduce stress on the nervous system, reduce the level of oxidative chemicals in the body, reduce inflammation and even reduce damage to the cells and organs. So, Aeon combats the process of aging on all of these levels and gives you an anti-aging benefit that you cannot find in any other product.

Source: Dr. Steven Haltiwanger